A Note From Dick Linnell

The 1997 Linnell Reunion is now a memory, but what a great memory. Meeting new cousins and greeting cousins from past reunions is a heart-warming experience. To all Linnell cousins who attended the reunion, THANKS for joining the family on the Cape. The site of the next reunion, to be held the last weekend in June of the year 2000, is upstate New York. Make plans now to attend.

As I turn over leadership of the association to the incoming chairman, Jerry Linnell, I ask all cousins to give Jerry the same wonderful support extended to me over the past six years. I am delighted with the newly elected members of the steering committee. Your association is in excellent hands for the future.

I will continue to serve as Membership Chairman. In this capacity I will keep the mailing list up to date. As you move about, continue to let me know of address changes so that the quarterly newsletters will continue to reach you.

Membership dues are the support of the association. If you haven't sent in your 1997 dues yet, we urge you to send them TODAY to Treasurer Judy Spelde. Look for the form in this newsletter, and thanks.

Greetings From Jerry Linnell

To my newly found Linnell family.

When Dick Linnell first approached me at the Linnell family reunion in Cape Cod about becoming chairman of the Linnell Family Assoc., I was hesitant. I had so many questions: What would I do with so many people I did not know? How would I remember everyone's name after meeting them for the first time? When would I find the time to do everything? Then, after talking to Dick for a while, and with the urging of my wife, Pat, I said why not.

One of the things of which I am most proud is my last name. As I think back to my wonderful childhood, being born in Duluth and raised in Grand Marais, MN -- "Big Swamp," as we used to say -- the Linnell get-togethers were filled with so much laughter and merriment that you would rest your head on the pillow at night and wish the day could have lasted just a little longer.

My dad, Verne La Roy Linnell (118,241,116,59), at the age of 32, married my mom, Ethel Jane Mitchell -- everyone called her Dolly -- with Hal (118,241,116,553) and Eve Bockovich at their side. I was their first child, born in 1942, followed by my sister, LaVerne Sue, three years later, and then my two younger brothers, Norman Bradley, 1955, and Jeffrey Curtis, 1957. Our homes -- all built by my father, with help from many relatives and friends -- were continually filled with visitors from near and far, not only because of my mom's wonderful Saturday fresh-baked goodies and the pot of coffee always on the stove, but also the love of music and laughter and wonderful stories of the life and times of the Linnells in Mineral Center. Now an Indian reservation, Mineral Center was home to Grandpa Peter (118,241,116,5) and Grandma Nellie, both of whom I never had the good fortune to know. Peter, at age 40, and Nellie, at age 36, from what I have been told, moved to Mineral Center in 1910 after having lived in Black River Falls, WI.

My dad was 2 years old at that time, so he spent most of his life in Minnesota. He told many stories about living in Mineral Center -- the hard work, his education up to the 8th grade, his family life. Most of what I remember are the great stories about his mom and dad and family on the homestead and at the store they owned; the caged bear drinking colored water that tourists used to buy; hitching the bull to the sled and pulling Uncle Louie (Arnold), his youngest brother, in the field and them getting in trouble; working in the woods logging with the great teams of horses; the Canadians who used to come down on the weekends and the different contests they had; the dances they had at the store. It goes on and on.

After my dad and mom were married in 1940, they settled in Grand Marais. Dad worked at many jobs, including the original Alaskan Highway, but spent most of his work life at Hedstrom Lumber Company, a great place, of course, for a young boy to be when his father would take him. The adventures now seem endless as we would travel together delivering lumber throughout northeastern Minnesota. I truly believed I was one of the luckiest kids in the world to have a dad so big and strong, so easy going, and so nice to everyone. That truly was a Linnell trait, from Uncle Ted, to Uncle Foster, to Aunt Tressie, to Uncle Chet, to Aunt Rae -- the most beautiful person in the world -- to Uncle Bob, Uncle Louie and Aunt Sis. You could talk forever about the wonderful things we did as family -- spending weekends together, praying together, picnicking together, and especially singing together. What beautiful music they would make, for my Dad (accordian), my cousins Bud (drums) and Marvel (piano) -- Uncle Foster's kids -- and their great friend, Duane Staples (guitar), played in a dance band and for many years provided weekend music for just about every special occasion there was to be held. Yes, Grand Marais was a special place, but for many, high school graduation meant going on to bigger and better things, so many thought. For me, it did end up that way, as I attended the Minnesota School of Business in Minneapolis to become a court reporter. Upon graduation, I was offered a job in Washington, D.C. -- believe it or not, another great spot in this huge world. There I met my wife Pat, chased her in my own subtle way until she caught me, and we were married in 1964. It wasn't long before we had two little ones -- Laurie & Don -- to look after.

In 1972, we moved to the suburbs of Baltimore for 10 years, where I worked as a free-lance reporter and found my second love -- coaching basketball, which I still do. Soon there arrived our youngest two children, Heather and Kate. In 1982, I was hired by the U.S. Senate as a reporter of Debates, taking verbatim speeches of statesmen such as Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, Howard Baker of Tennessee, George Mitchell of Maine, and many others, to be incorporated into the Congressional Record. Meanwhile, Pat was becoming an accomplished singer, photographer, writer and computer expert. She wrote articles and took pictures for many nationally known magazines until she took her present job at GEICO insurance company in their communications department.

In 1985, Pat and I purchased our home on Capitol Hill, a cozy little row home built back in 1889, which we have since renovated and are pleased to show off to anyone who comes to town looking for that special "Linnell-Coldwell" hospitality, where the music is available, the cooking is good, and the storytelling follows as in the days of Grand Marais.

Charlene Linnell Toews Family Association Secretary

I was born in Lebanon and moved a lot as a child. I've lived in most of the Eastern Seaboard States and in California. I now live in Florida. I am married, with two teenage children. My BA is in International Relations and I have worked in retail and as a travel agent.

For many years my focus was on volunteer work, teaching parenting classes, working on programs to prevent adolescent pregnancy and volunteer teaching in both pre-schools and elementary schools. Currently I do publicity for a Fine Arts group here in Florida, and have also done publicity for a local museum as well as my children's high school.

Although I have always been interested in history, I developed a strong interest in genealogy only about six or seven years ago. I have spent considerable time and effort trying to track down our elusive Robert Linnell in England, but to no avail! Our Linnell heritage is increasingly unique in the diverse America of today and I would like to have everyone know of their background, as I believe it helps to explain who we are today.

GENEOLOGISTS NEVER DIE, THEY JUST LOSE THEIR CENSUS!

Linnell Family Web Page

Following the family meeting at the Cape Cod reunion, a group of interested people got together to begin the planning for a Linnell Web Page. There were a number of ideas about the contents of the page including a genealogical page with ancestry records, a page with family stories, and a newsletter page. Andrew Linnell agreed to head the effort.

The group consisted of:

Andrew Linnell	linnell@top.monad.net
Scott Linnell	jlinnell@lucent.com
Ann & Al Linnell	74273.3166@compuserve.com
Doug Roberts	droberts@airmail.net
Judy Spelde	judyk@iea.com
Doreen Craig	rcraig@infoway.lib.nm.us
Lori Linnell	loralin@aol.com
Jim Swedberg	swedbug@aloha.net

They hope to have the Linnell Home Page on the Net soon.

REDISCOVERED THE GRAVESTONE OF JONATHAN LINNELL (117)

The Linnell Family Reunion was held on Cape Cod, June 20-22, 1997, at the Holiday Inn in Hyannis. As a first-time attendee, it was an eye-opening experience. It was fun to meet so many new relatives from all over the United States, and to discover how many traits we have in common. It was interesting to learn some of the history of Cape Cod, as we did on Saturday evening during a slide show and historical presentation. Jim Swedberg's humorous presentation of "Linnell costumes through 300 years" was learning at its best--hilarious and never to be forgotten. But the highlight of the weekend for me was the re-discovery, at Orleans Cemetery, of Jonathan Linnell's grave.

Saturday afternoon was "free time". As we Linnell's are a diverse group, everyone went off in different directions--some to the beach, some to sightsee, some to the Sturgis Library to see the Lothrop Bible, and some to a number of local cemeteries that have Linnell gravestones. Now, one doesn't have to be a dedicated "genealogist" to enjoy a tour of a graveyard! My party consisted of three of us: Larry Linnell from Pennsylvania, Randa Linnell Mammarella from Massachusetts, and myself, Charlene Linnell Toews from Florida. And we were on a Treasure Hunt.

We had a challenge before us. Although Rachel Linnell Wynn, our Historian, had discovered Jonathan's grave in the past, and although Clifton Linnell had gone to Orleans Cemetery several times to try to discover the whereabouts of Jonathan's grave, at the time of the Reunion, no one was sure of where exactly his grave was within the cemetery. Orleans Cemetery is a fairly large place so with three of us searching simultaneously, we were hopeful. Also, we were able to build on the work that Clifton had done, as he gave us a map showing approximate locations of the Linnell graves he had discovered

Following a suggestion from Rose Linnell, Larry's teenage daughter, we started our search in the part of the cemetery where Clifton had no graves marked. As the three of us fanned out, looking at each and every gravestone, it was warm and sunny, the skies were blue--it was a perfect New England day, and we were all enjoying ourselves. It's a humbling experience to read all these gravestones, Linnell or not. We found a Linnell family, with a 5 year old son, who were all "lost at sea". We found people who had lived to 90 in the 1700's, and babies that lived such a short time they were simply "infant". And somewhat to our surprise, within just a very few minutes, WE FOUND JONATHAN!!

As you can see from the photograph, Jonathan's grave is not in good shape. In fact, if it weren't for the fact that a descendant of his, sometime in the past, paid for some restoration work, we would not have been able to identify his grave at all. This descendant paid to embed the original stone in a piece of granite, and had the foresight to duplicate on the back of the new granite piece all the information originally engraved on the tombstone. Now that the entire lower right portion of the original stone is gone, and with it the Linnell name, this restoration work is critical for identification. One can compare the current photo with the photo in the Descendants of Robert Linnell book and see how just a few years has seen a lot of decay. It's sad to see parts of our heritage disappear. But Larry Linnell, Randa Mammarella, and I returned triumphant to the Reunion!

THE GRAVESTONE OF JOHN LINNELL

John Linnell (118), the younger brother of Jonathan Linnell (117) in the preceding story, died on February 9, 1747, and is buried on the right hand side in the fifth row of the Lathrop Hill Cemetery in Barnstable. Ruth Davis, his wife of 52 years, died the following year and is buried next to him.

His gravestone is also suffering the ravages of time. When I first saw it, some ten years ago, its surface showed the beginnings of a crack. The slate stone is now broken in half with one piece laying against another. There is considerable flaking. I am concerned that this stone may be destroyed if no steps are taken to preserve it. I feel that all these stones are a priceless part of the Linnell family history. It would be a shame to see any destroyed by the elements.

Cost estimates for restoring the stone vary, depending on the extent of the work. It would cost about $175 to simply epoxy it together. It would cost about $450 to epoxy it together and re-set it in concrete. I believe this is what was done to the Jonathan Linnell stone. Finally, it would cost about $1100 to make a new stone which would be somewhat different, not an exact replica.

I propose that a fund, handled by the Treasurer, established with donations, be established to preserve these two stones, as well as any others which are discovered to be in danger. If you agree, please contact me.

This map is not to scale, but it will help you if you wish to find the Jonathan Linnell grave.

Personals Notes from Our Cousins

Dear Cousins,

John and I were looking forward to being with you at the reunion this year. As some of you know, I lost John on April 10th. Though he would probably encourage me to go on with our plans, I do not feel ready to travel by myself yet. Knowing how much he enjoyed each reunion and his enthusiasm for them makes it even harder for me at this time.

My hopes and prayers are for a successful reunion and that it will be enjoyed by all. As of now I hope to make the reunion in the year 2000 and look forward to seeing you all again.

With love to all of you
Your cousin
Ladoska (Dossie) Elliott

The Descendants of Robert Linnell Additions and Corrections 1994-1997

The first printing of The Descendants of Robert Linnell Additions and Corrections 1997-1997, a companion book to the Second Edition of The Descendants of Robert Linnell, was sold out at the Cape Cod reunion.

"Additions" contains sixty pages of new information about the Linnell descendants, and is indexed with over 1000 names, including entire lines of Linnell descendants that have come to light in the last three years; new information regarding births, deaths, and marriages; and stories and other data recently compiled from family history sheets. "Additions" follows the same pattern as in the Second Edition, with the ancestry line for the oldest member of a generation of siblings identified for clarification.

In order to use this compilation successfully with the Second Edition of The Descendants of Robert Linnell, the page numbers for individual entries are those on which that entry would have occurred in the Second Edition if the information had been available at that time. The Chapter organization is also the same. A second printing of "Additions" is now available. (See order form on the back cover of newsletter.)

SO YOU MISSED THE CAPE COD REUNION.....

If you missed the Cape Cod Linnell Family Association Reunion on Cape Cod, but you like to READ, I have a suggestion for you! My experience at the Reunion was greatly enriched by a historical fiction novel by William Martin, entitled

CAPE COD. Although it is fiction, in the early years especially, the characters' lives greatly resemble our own Linnell history. The Pilgrims arrive, move out toward Barnstable, then Eastham,—just as our ancestors really did. The Aptucxet Trading Post, which was established by the Pilgrims in 1627 as the first known commercial enterprise on the North American continent, has been re-created near Bourne and one can visit it. Perhaps our Linnell's visited it in their time! This book is thick, and it's a slow read, but I think many people might enjoy it!

Cape Cod Reunion Video Tapes

What a wonderful time we all had at Cape Cod! We connected with cousins we had not seen in three years. We met cousins we had not known before. We marveled at how the younger generation had grown up in three years and were a real presence this year. We had fun doing the "macarena" and singing together. Those youngsters were great at the line dances! And there was so much more as told in the articles included in this issue of the newsletter. Our story is on the video tape created by Hal Bockovich. Our faces are recorded in interviews of family groups by Mark Wynn. You will want to remember the faces and the events with this record. Order video from Hal Bockovich using order form on the right.

Necrology Read at the Reunion

Fifty-five names of persons whose deaths have been recorded since the 1994 reunion were read at the Cape Cod Reunion Sunday Service of Worship. Several corrections and an addition were part of the reading. These are:

Eva Clark Linnell 11a,b15,514,-11S, d. 17
Feb. 1995

Robert Crosby Linnell 11a,b15,844,1, d. 28
Dec. 1996

Carl Royce Lister 11a,b15,514,-11,-3S,
d. 25 Aug. 1996

Lyman Julien Roberts 118,241,116,231, d. 4
June 1997

A memorial prayer was offered by the Rev. J.C. Wynn at the conclusion of the reading. Copies of the Necrology are available from Rachel Linnell Wynn, 717 Maiden Choice Ln # 523, Catonsville, MD, at no cost.

Records of Births and Marriages will be listed for the November, 1997, newsletter.
